me to. Why not? But," he added, as he slipped over his head a silk shirt bought in Berlin, "it won't be tonight. I'm all dated up."

Inquiries among the Dempsey entourage elicited the information that the champion, Damon Runyon, and Bill Halligan are all dining together tonight, the feminine element being conspicuous by its absence.

In the Peggy camp, Kathleen Maloney, the English pianist who has accompanied Peggy since she left New York, acted as watch dog, snoring away the reporters who besieged the suite.

"Miss Joyce has nothing to say," she announced.

However, Peggy admitted me to the sanctity of her chamber and told me that she is tremendously distressed at the turn things have taken.

Admires Dempsey.

"Why I never dreamed for a moment that my name would be linked with Jack Dempsey's," she said. "I admire him. He is a wonderful specimen of man. He is a fine dancer and is just awfully nice with women, but the only dealings I have ever had with him was when he asked me to act with him in a picture in America. I turned him down, but since this tragedy I think it might be best to quit Paris, so I am going to tell him that I will accept the contract."

When it became known in Paris that Dempsey was coming back unaccompanied by Jack Kearns, there were rumors that the two had split on account of Peggy. The stories spread far and wide, but everybody in the champion's entourage scoffed at the tales. Dempsey roared with laughter when the subject was mentioned to him.

"Go to it, boys, I ain't married," he shouted to a group of newspapermen who quizzed him about the latest Paris gossip. Errazuriz will be buried Friday. The Chilean ambassador will be one of the chief mourners. The authorities have decided that it was a clear case of suicide. From the first to the last, the police never allowed mention of Peggy's name, taking their cue from the fanesque of the wealthy Chilean, who, denying the boy's attachment for Peggy, seeks to impute the entire sensation to the love of American actresses for publicity.

Evidence of the champion's temperamental responding with such tear-gutters as "Boo Hoo Hoo," "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," "April Showers," "My Mother's Rosary," and finishing with "Some of These Days You'll Miss Me, Honey."

Two hours after this song was sung, Errazuriz was dying.

BORAH CHARGES RUSSIAN ENVOY MISUSED FUNDS

that Bakhtmetoff received $167,000.00 of American money after his arrival here as the representative of the Kerensky government," Borah added, "and I have never been able to discover, despite the most diligent inquiry, that Bakhtmetoff has ever spent a penny of that money for the benefit of the Russian people."

"And now we have Semenovoff coming to this country for the avowed purpose of raising and getting more American money. Semenovoff was quoted in an interview before he left Tokyo as saying that he was coming here and going to Europe to foster interest in another anti-Bolshevik movement in Siberia and to raise money for that purpose."

"There is nothing in the history of the world that equals the cold-blooded, ruthless rapacity and blood-thirstiness of this man Semenovoff," Borah declared.

"Reviewing at length the testimony recently given by witnesses against Semenovoff before the Senate Labor Committee, Borah declared that the "hideous story of the Russians' revolting, murderous tactics furnished one of the most horrible pages of history."

"What was the motive of Semenovoff—just sheer blood-thirstiness?" inquired Senator McCumber (Rep.) of North Dakota.

"Blood-thirstiness doubtless had a lot to do with the slaughter of thousands of helpless men, women and children and ordered by him in Siberia," Borah answered.

"But whatever the reasons may have been I think that it has been clearly established that he sought to create a reign of terror by which he hoped to set himself up as the autocratic ruler of that part of Siberia which he terrorized."

"There is indisputable evidence that men, women and children were herded together like dumb animals by Semenovoff's cosacks, hauled like helpless cattle to slaughter and, after being shot and cut down, pushed into great holes or ditches in the ground which had previously been prepared for their burial and in which many of them were interred while still alive."

CHANG'S ARMY DEFEATED AT 3 STRONG POINTS

Wu's Forces Reported to Be Advancing on Fengtai. Peking Gates Shut.

LONDON, May 4.—Gen. Wu Pei-Fu has turned the right flank of Gen. Chang Tso-Lin's army on the Chinese battle front, said a dispatch from Peking today. The famous Fengtai troops were reported to have been put to flight.

By International News Service. PEKING, May 4.—Reports indicate the forces of Wu Pei-Fu have won a sweeping victory at Machang Kuan Hsien, and Shan Sin Tien. Wu is reported to have taken the latter point and is driving toward Fengtai.

The gates of Peking have been closed. Fengtai is one of Chang Tso-Lin's strongest centers. It is from this section that his famous Fengtai troops come. It has been serving as one of the bases of his campaign.

The report of Wu's success came after twelve hours of terrific fighting.

Earlier reports said Machang and Kuan-Hsien changed hands frequently and claims of victory were made by both Chang Tso-Lin and Wu.

Chang Gets Reinforcements. Tien Tsin reported that twelve of Chang's troop trains passed through there, evidently to reinforce his hard pressed forces at Machang.

Chang Sin Tien, center of much of the fighting since the war started a few days ago, was the scene of better conflict. Explosion of an ammunition dump there yesterday by a bomb from one of Wu's airplanes has sent the peasants streaming to the city in fear.

Many guests brought 400 refugees from the vicinity of Chang Sin Tien. A refugee camp for women and children has been established on the compound of the American board of Foreign Missions.

British Diplomat Wounded. E. S. Bennett, vice counselor of the British delegation, is in a serious condition as a result of a bullet wound received while watching the fighting. He is the first foreigner reported wounded.

British Indian troops have been assigned to guard the inhabitants of Tunchow.

A rumor of the death of Wu Pei-Fu, while leading his forces to battle, caused great excitement here last night, as the belief is strong that a victory for Chang will mean the end of the republic. Students and merchants are especially ardent supporters of Wu.

The Peking government is completely impotent. The city administration, however, has promised complete protection for foreigners.

'LOOKS BLACK FOR ME,' SAYS NURSE ON TRIAL

for that reason I cannot spare this poor creature in my efforts to probe to the very bottom of this outrageous murder.

Says Circumstances Plain. "When did woman, with the other privileges which she has usurped, assume the right to kill or maim, either by provocation or in a temporary state of jealous rage and be excused because she wears skirts?"

"The circumstances surrounding the killing of Mrs. Eastlake are perfectly plain to me, as I have tried to make them equally apparent to you gentlemen.

"The man who sharpened the hatchet with which the deed was done, has come here and identified it beyond any question of doubt. That is not a Virginia hatchet. No more is it a service hatchet, as the defense tried to make it appear. It is a New Jersey hatchet, imported into this grand old Dominion State for the expressed purpose of committing a felony."

"Mr. Crowthers unfalteringly told you that Miss Knox brought it to him in Ocean City on September 7, twenty-three days before the murder occurred, and asked him to put a sharp edge on it."

"He told you that this prisoner had on another occasion, inquired of him how to do away with a woman without being detected. What more do you ask about the hatchet than that?"

"The circumstances of Miss Knox's presence in the vicinity of the crime within ten minutes after it is established to have taken place has not been satisfactorily explained. Why have they not been?"

"If she did not with her own hands mortally wound Mrs. Eastlake on the morning of September 30 last, then who in the name of God did? What business did she have there at the Eastlake home at such an unearthly hour as 4:30 in the morning?"

"Letters which you have had read to you and testimony of Mr. Eastlake, as well as of the little boy Roger, proved that Miss Knox and Mrs. Eastlake were not on good terms on account of money and romantic differences. Yet Miss Knox is found loitering in the vicinity of the home a few minutes after the woman was killed.

"There you have the crime and the motive, and I trust enough in your intelligence to furnish the answer."

RUSSIA TO ASK LOAN FROM U. S. IF GENOA FAILS

Chief of Soviet Publicists Reveals Plan—Concessions As Collateral.

By International News Service. LONDON, May 4.—"Great Britain has refused to recognize any obligation to compensate Russia for damage done by allied troops in Russia subsequent to the armistice," Austen Chamberlain, government spokesman, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon for such damage had been made by the Russians at Genoa.

By GEORGE POPOFF. By International News Service. MOSCOW, May 4.—If the Genoa conference fails, Russia will approach the United States for a loan, offering railway concessions as collateral, according to an exclusive statement to the International News Service today by M. Steklov, editor of the Communist organ Izvestia and chief of the soviet's publicists.

"If the international economic conference fails, it will be due mainly to the absence of the United States," said Steklov. "Furthermore, if the conference fails, Russia will approach the United States for a loan. We are ready to offer the United States railroad concessions in Siberia, and we believe that we can become the greatest market in the world for American trade."

Russian and American economic interests do not clash, Steklov said. The only country which could help the United States fight Japan. At the same time America could help Russia to rid herself of her undesirable guests.

Steklov's reference to "undesirable guests" was a thrust at Japanese occupation of Eastern Siberia.

Answer End of Week. By International News Service. GENOA, May 4.—The allied statement of conditions for recognition of the Moscow soviet government were under scrutiny by the Russian delegation to the economic conference today, but it is unlikely that an answer will be given until the end of the week. It is understood that the Russians are dissatisfied, and will ask for its revision.

Dr. Hatfield said. The death rate in the United States from tuberculosis has decreased one-half, Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, managing director of the association, announced in making the executive report.

The decline in the death rate means a saving of 100,000 lives a year in the United States alone, he said. "The real fight against tuberculosis was begun in 1904 with the organization of the National Association of Tuberculosis, which has only a handful of agencies trying to combat the disease. Today there are 1,100 such organizations, expending annually over $30,000,000 in the fight," Dr. Hatfield said.

TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE IS REDUCED HALF

Reports Given at National Association Convention. Hughes Lauds Work.

The Nation's fight against tuberculosis, centered in Washington today with the opening meeting of the eighteenth annual convention of the National Tuberculosis Association, which began its deliberations this morning in the First Congressional Church, Tenth and G streets northwest.

Some definite idea of the work of the National Association in its fight against the "white plague" is gathered from the fact that when the work was begun in 1904 there were annually 200,000 deaths in the United States from this cause, compared to 100,000 deaths in 1921.

Secretary of State Hughes paid a tribute to the work of the members in the opening address to the organization, when he welcomed the delegates to Washington and outlined the accomplishments of their work. Not only were there 100,000 fewer deaths from tuberculosis in the United States last year as a result of the work of the association, Secretary Hughes said, but the attention of the public has been directed to sanitation and hygiene in a way which cannot but be conducive to an advance of conditions of well-being in the land.

As governor of New York, Mr. Hughes said, he became interested in the fight against the disease. "It is well for the community to recognize that with respect to this dreadful scourge which was formerly regarded as a visitation of Providence, we hold the means of prevention. If a plague suddenly visited us with the destructive effects of this disease, the entire nation would be aroused to self-protection."

"Familiarity too long dulls our apprehension. Fortunately the incidence has largely disappeared, but it is only through your constant activities that all communities will be alive to their opportunity and duty. To those who have labored in this movement the nation is under lasting obligations, and I trust that you will have an ever-increasing support and constantly widening area of the most successful endeavor."
